User Story:

1. John, 16yrs old, about to go into 11th grade. He has choices of books to read for summer homework but can't decide what to pick. He goes to our application, searches through the reviews that were given to each of the books, and chooses based of the reviews. He now knows what type of book he is getting and enjoys the story by assuring he chose the one that best suited his style off of the reviews.
2. Karen, 42yrs old, English Teacher, wants to keep track of the progress on the book they are reading in class, Of Mice and Men, and as a fun activity, has the students write different summaries and ratings and eventually picks one to keep on the application.

Personas:

1. Tammy, 14yrs old, reads books with her friends, recommends books to her friends/classmates often, reads at least one book every week, wants to keep track of how many books she's read and keep in order which she likes the best so she doesn't forget any books she's read.
2. Toby, 34yrs old, hosts book clubs, reads many books every year, but has a hard time keeping track of all the books he's read through the years and it's becoming a problem because he can't decide which books to recommend to his book club.
3. Gabby, 27yrs old, famous influencer who loves to read and recommends books to her viewers to ad revenue. She wants to maintain her audience with good book recommendations and wants to find a good organization application.

Use-Cases:

1. Wants to keep track of books someone has read to recommend to friends.
2. Keeping track of where they are at for books they took breaks from
3. Keep summaries to remind themselves what books were about
4. Needs to pick a book out of a specific genre/group, able to look at reviews and decide on what book best suits them